

Life After Laurus – Careers

It's never too early to look at Careers. Even though you are just starting out on your High School journey there are lots of future decisions you should start to think about. The more research you do, the more you'll be able to think about your future working life.

- Speak to family members about what qualifications they got at school, college or university.
- Where did someone in your family go to university – what was it like, what did they study?
- Ask a close member of the family to talk you through ALL the jobs they've had. Could you record this as a timeline from their first job to their current job. If possible speak to an older grand-parent. How is the Career Path they followed different to your expectations?
- Visit Careers Pilot – register yourself with parental permission and look through the jobs section – Click Here
- Try BBC Bitesize – What sort of job would you enjoy? Careers - BBC Bitesize
- Research the Labour Market by using the LMI website
